

The coffee machine turns on with a yellow screen and says a hello when the user addresses it.

Once the user has given it instructions the machine responds with "OK" to indicate that it understood.

When the machine is ready to make the coffee it will say "making coffee" and the screen will start blinking.

When the coffee is done the screen will turn green and the machine will say "coffee done".